The Two Towers captivates audience*

By LESLIE LEONARD

It is about almost a month since it hit the theaters, but audiences are still talking about the new movie.

"The Two Towers" which is based on the last of the Ring's novel trilogy (Rings Trilogy) has been capturing critics and audience performance — but it opened in theaters.

Director Peter Jackson began "The Two Towers" with a copy of "The Hobbit" (the first of the Ring Trilogy) in his hand, which he used as a story bible. He said that the movie puts up a wall that the Fellowship of the Ring left off. There is no problem or continuity of events that occurred in the first movie, so viewers can have and see the Fellowship of the Ring left off to go on.

In the first movie, a group of adventures set out to destroy a ring which was created by Sauron, the lord of Mordor. The ring possesses great power and is known to be a threat to the world. The ring was created by Sauron, the lord of Mordor. The ring was created by Sauron, the lord of Mordor. The ring was created by Sauron, the lord of Mordor.

One of the ways has been captured by the Ring. The Ring is a powerful force that can be used for good or evil. The Ring is a powerful force that can be used for good or evil. The Ring is a powerful force that can be used for good or evil.

COUNSELLOR CORNER: Study Skills

Writing how to study efficiently does not always come naturally. Students who want to learn and who are eager to do well in college should always learn what to do. Many students do not know how much to study or how to do it. They may not know how to use college level textbooks, research, and writing. They may not know how to use college level textbooks, research, and writing.

Many students find it difficult to learn how to study. They may not know how to use college level textbooks, research, and writing. They may not know how to use college level textbooks, research, and writing.

There are many challenges. Student Services offers a variety of workshops to help students go to the next level in their studies. Good study habits often lead to better grades and more success. Students who have been taught study methods get better grades with less stress at study. It is not how much you study but how well.

When should you seek help with study skills?

When you feel overwhelmed.

When you want to reduce your study time.

When you feel discouraged.

When you feel disorganized.

When you want to take better notes and read more effectively.

When you need more information.

Anytime.
